

Geranium 'Johnson's Blue'

Johnson's Blue Crane's Bill

DESCRIPTION

Vibrant, magenta flowers cover light green foliage.

Deep lavender-blue, saucer-shaped flowers appear in early summer among deeply divided, mid-green leaves.

The loose clusters of lavender-blue flowers become paler at the center, look lovely weaving in and out of the front of a mixed border or at the base of flowering shrubs.

This geranium rapidly forms a dense carpet of foliage, valuable for suppressing weeds, and if cut back after flowering, will usually produce a second flushes of flowers later in the summer.

Attracts butterflies and are deer and rabbit resistant.
